FROM BULK SUPPLY TO ORIGIN-BASED VALUE: THE FUTURE OF INDONESIAN COCOA

The real opportunity now lies beyond the award itself, "How can Indonesia turn more local success stories into lasting value for farmers and the cocoa sector?" Join this hands-on masterclass for an engaging discussion on scaling integrated approaches on sustainable production, quality upgrading, and origin-based market development to unlock the potential of Indonesian cocoa.

MODERATOR

CHRISTINA RINI

Deputy Country Director Swisscontact Indonesia and Sustainable Landscape Project Manager

Christina will be moderating the session, providing insights from decade experience working for sustainable cocoa with global companies and empowering 165,000 farmers.

SPEAKERS

MANFRED BORER

Owner at Kudeungoe Sugata Indonesia

Manfred will provide upstream and downstream perspectives, sharing the farmer's voice, experience as a trainer and service provider, fermented bean trading, and cocoa sector context in Aceh Tenggara.

JEAN-MARC RODA

Regional Director for Southeast Asia and Senior Scientist at CIRAD (The French Agricultural Research for Development)

Jean-Marc will provide scientific justification for high-quality production and fermented beans, highlighting their importance for smallholder farmers' resilience and prosperity through INDOCACAO's experience.

BALDWIN JEHANNO

Founder at Jika Chocolat

Baldwin will provide the downstream perspective, highlighting the rise of Indonesian artisanal chocolate and its growing recognition for quality in the global chocolate market.

We create opportunities

FROM SEED TO VALUE

In Aceh Tenggara, Swisscontact, together with Sugata and the District Government, combined farmer capacity building, agroforestry, high-quality planting materials, and beans quality improvement. Follow the journey from pod to bar to see how local collaborative action can translate into better-quality cocoa.
