Topa La Bago has already been used for hundreds of years to take a boat to Bante village. There you can ask a local for the spring “Topa La Bago”. Due to the volcanic origin of the island, there are countless hidden freshwater springs. The metal heats up until they can mold it to get the desired shape. The blacksmiths can not only make knives but also flat plates, cups, and other daily needs. You can experience the work process and even craft one yourself. It’s not for nothing that the machetes are called “Parang” (machete). These machetes are sold all around Indonesia and asked for in every village.

In Kulati, you will find the old fort still remain intact. There are 3 main gates to enter the fort. From the main gate, you will have a great view across the sea and the lower land of Tomia. The local skill of fishing is very good. Book your activities through your tour operator. You will see how the people also hold many festivals and cultural events in the area of the old fort.
